FARMERS PROTEST AGAINST PRESENT MEAT ORDINANCE

Committee From Farmers' Union
Files Petition Asking That Section Requiring Hogs and Cattle
be Slaughtered in Slaughter Houses be Amended.

This morning a petition was filed with the City Clerk by Justice and Broadhart representing a committee from the Guilford County Farmers' Union asking that the present meat inspection ordinance be amended so that the farmers be allowed to kill their cattle and hogs and haul them to market before having them inspected. The farmers state that they do not object to the inspection, but they contend that the requirement that they bring their cattle alive to this city before killing is a hardship. As a part of the petition they make a suggestion as to an amendment that should be made to the present ordinance.

The petition was placed before the board this afternoon, but no action was taken by that body. Mayor Murphy is absent from the city for a week and it is not likely that any action will be taken before he returns, even if there is time.

The committee is composed of J. C. Kennett, Pleasant Garden; R. M. Gladstone and W. H. Williams. The petition in full follows:

To the Board of Commissioners of the City of Greensboro:

Gentlemen:—We represent the producers of fresh meats raised by the farmers in Guilford county, and indirectly we believe we represent the interests of the consumers of fresh meats in the city of Greensboro. We also represent directly ourselves individually as producers of fresh meats in Guilford county.

The recent ordinance adopted by you which requires every farmer and producer of fresh meats in Guilford county to bring his cattle, sheep, hogs, etc., to one of the three slaughter pens maintained around Greensboro, before he reaches the local market in Greensboro, and before he is permitted to sell his home raised products to the consumers, we believe to be unnecessary for sanitary purposes, and to be detrimental to the rural population of Guilford county and to the consumers of fresh meats in Greensboro.

We ask that the ordinance with regard to fresh meats be modified, by adding the following at the end of these ordinances which we respectfully ask you to adopt in the form as proposed, or in some form which will be substantially similar thereto, to wit:

"Provided that nothing contained in the ordinances of the city of Greensboro with regard to the slaughtering animals, and inspection of fresh meats offered for sale in said city shall prevent any person who has raised any cow, sheep or hog, or who has purchased and has owned for more than twelve months any cow, sheep or hog, when such animal was not purchased for re-sale or for slaughter, from slaughtering such animal on the premises of such person, and thereafter offering the fresh meat of such animal for sale in the city of Greensboro: Provided, that before such meat is so offered for sale the person so slaughtering it shall bring it to some convenient place in the city of Greensboro designated by the Board of Commissioners where it shall be inspected and stamped or tagged with the approval of the milk and meat inspector for the city of Greensboro; and

"Provided further, that when such person brings such fresh meat for inspection he also brings along with the carcass and attached to the same the heart, lungs, liver, kidneys and viscera of the said animal.

"Provided further, that any person who buys for re-sale or for slaughter shall not be allowed to offer fresh meat for sale without having the animal inspected and slaughtered as required by the general ordinances of the city of Greensboro."

We respectfully submit that the failure to adopt some such ordinance as is hereby requested fails to take into consideration the fact that it is not practical for the farmers of Guilford county to bring their animals to one of the three slaughter houses around Greensboro for the purpose of having them slaughtered, and that the inevitable result is either to force the farmers of Guilford county to seek other markets than their home market, or to be driven out of one of the legitimate occupations of farmers upon which the prosperity not only of the

BUILDING FUND FOR METHODIST CHILDREN'S HOME

The Aggregate of Subscriptions Now Amounts to Over $64,000.

Winston, Aug. 2.—Rev. J. P. Rodgers, field agent for the Methodist Children's Home, of this city, has secured subscriptions aggregating $64,473.32 to date on the building fund of the Home.

For the conference year, ending November, 1909, he secured subscriptions aggregating $27,000; for the conference year ending November, 1910, he secured subscriptions amounting to $25,000; and thus far this year, he has secured subscriptions for $12,473.32. There still remain three months in which to work before the close of the present year.

The above subscriptions represent donations from Methodists throughout the western part of the state as well as from numbers of other people who are interested in the unfortunate children of the state. People in practically every section of the Western North Carolina Conference have contributed something toward erecting the permanent buildings of the institution which will play a prominent part in the life of Winston-Salem and North Carolina.

The plans for the orphanage have been completed as well as the plans for the landscape work which when completed will make one of the most beautiful orphanage institutions in the South. The cottage plan was adopted after exhaustive study of the best methods by Supt. Hayes on account of its desirability as giving the children the nearest approach to home life and influence. The location of the grounds is ideal.

A number of Methodist Sunday schools have conducted excursions to the Home this summer in order to view the institution and to spend a day on its hospitable grounds with its beautiful trees. In the future, it promises to be a Mecca of the Methodist Sunday school excursionists and will bring thousands of people to the Twin-City.

Work is now in progress on one of the new cottages. Others will be erected as needed and as the subscriptions are paid in. The institution is under able executive management and although young in the point of years it is already doing a work whose value cannot be too highly estimated.

VIRGINIA APPRECIATIVE OF MILITARY FAVORS.

Special to Telegram.

Raleigh, Aug. 2.—Writing to Adjutant General R. L. Leinster, of the North Carolina National Guard his appreciation for the use of the rifle range at Camp Glenn, Morehead, for a detachment of the Virginia National Guard, Adjutant General William W. Sale, of the Virginia Guard says every man of the detachment joins in heartiest thanks for courtesies and attentions by North Carolina officers and men that were all that could have been conferred for the furtherance of their work on the range, their comfort and pleasure, to say nothing of the acts of kindness by all whom they met. He assures Gen. Leinster of the eagerness of Virginia to manifest appreciation substantially whenever there is opportunity to extend any courtesy or assistance.

A PLOT TO RECALL DIAZ DISCOVERED

Mexico City, Aug. 2.—The authorities have discovered a plot to recall Porfirio Diaz and make him dictator of the Mexican republic. Many arrests have been made since the plot was discovered. Despite assurances to the contrary it seems that the ruling hand of Diaz has been needed more than once since he was deposed and the conditions appear to be growing worse daily. However, it is not believed by those who were closest to the ex-president that he would return to Mexico again.

Gates' Condition Critical.

Paris, Aug. 2.—John W. Gates is resting easy today, but his condition is considered critical. But little hope for his recovery is entertained by his family.

Uncle Sam Has Planned Elaborate Entertainment For Admiral Togo, Hero of the Japanese Navy.

Admiral Count Hachiro Togo of the Japanese navy, who practically annihilated the fleet of Admiral Rojensky in the sea of Japan during the Russo-Japanese war, will arrive at New York on Aug. 3 to be the guest of the United States government for a fortnight. Togo represented his government at the coronation of King George and is making his trip home by way of America. It will be his first visit to this country. During his stay Admiral Togo will be entertained at a state dinner at the White House, and the secretaries of the navy and of war will give dinners in his honor, as also will Baron Uchida, the Japanese ambassador. Other dates made for him are: Naval academy, Annapolis, Aug. 7; Baltimore, Aug. 9; Philadelphia, Aug. 10; New York, Aug. 11 and 12.

FOUR

Miners Killed and Nine
Injured by Explosion at Shannon, Va.

Bluefield, W. Va., Aug. 2.—An explosion in the mine of the Pocahontas Coal Company at Shannon this morning instantly killed four miners and wounded nine others.

LECONTE IN POSSESSION OF GONAIVES

Cape Haitien, Aug. 2.—Gen. Leconte, at the head of his revolutionary army, entered Gonaives this morning. He at once issued a proclamation for the purpose of calming the inhabitants, assuring them that they would not be harmed. He also announced his intention of continuing his march to Port au Prince today.

Charters Issued.

Special to Telegram.
Raleigh, Aug. 2.—The Carolina Live Stock Co., of Ellerbe, is chartered with $3,300 capital by J. F. Stafford and others. Other charters are for the Watson & King Co., Rockingham, capital $10,000 by H. G. Watson and others for mercantile business and DePriest & Yelton (Inc.) Lattimore, Cleveland county, capital $50,000 authorized, and $2,000 subscribed by A. B. C. DePriest and others, for mercantile business.

BEATTIE

And State Witnesses in Murder Case Will Remain in Henrico Jail.

Richmond, Va., Aug. 2.—The authorities have abandoned the plan to remove Henry Clay Beattie, Paul Beattie and Beulah Binford, who are being held as principal and witnesses, respectively, in the noted Beattie murder case, from their present place of confinement to another jail. They will remain in the Henrico county jail until they are taken to Chesterfield county for trial.

It is reported, though not officially, the defense wants a change of venue to another county. The defense contends that it would be impossible to get an impartial jury in Chesterfield county, while it has been found that a majority of the people living in the county are in some way related to Henry Clay Beattie, the alleged murderer, or to the slain woman.

A prompt hearing is anticipated, probably within a week after the indictment on August 14. Mr. Wendenburg said yesterday that he saw no reason why the trial should be unduly prolonged—that the Commonwealth could probably present its evidence in three or four days, and that he did not anticipate the trial would last more than a week after the jury had been impaneled. Efforts will first be made to secure a jury from Chesterfield county, and only when this has failed will a venire be drawn from elsewhere, he said.

Beulah Binford took occasion yesterday to deny that she had been badgered or ill-treated either by the jail officers or the Commonwealth detectives. She seemed fairly well contented for one so

BANDITS

Raid Sewing Machine
Office at Odessa and Shoot the Manager.

Odessa, Russia, Aug. 2.—Early this morning the office of the American Sewing Machine Company was raided by bandits. The manager, who tried to intercept the robbers, was shot and killed.

FIRE CAUSES PANIC AMONG PRISONERS

Boston, Mass., Aug. 2.—Fire, which broke out in the plant of the Woods Lumber Company early this morning, destroyed a large number of tenement houses located near the plant before it was gotten under control. The State prison was located nearby and the nearness of the fire caused a panic among the nine hundred prisoners behind the bars.

Pope Pius Better.

Rome, Aug. 2.—The condition of Pope Pius was greatly improved this morning.

confined, and asked one of the detectives to collect for her all of the newspapers that had printed her picture. She wants to make a collection of views of herself. A newspaper picture of Henry Beattie has a conspicuous place on the wall of her cell.

THOUSANDS IN WILMINGTON FOR VETERANS' REUNION

Opening Session Was Held This Morning in Academy of Music.

Special to Telegram.

Wilmington, Aug. 2.—The Academy of Music was crowded to the doors this morning at 10 o'clock when the opening session of the annual convention and reunion of the North Carolina Division, United Confederate Veterans, was called to order by Gen. Julian S. Carr, of Durham, commander of the division. The exercises this morning were of a most interesting nature and held the attention of the large audience.

After prayer by the chaplain of the division, Mayor Joseph D. Smith, of Wilmington, was introduced, and he delivered the address of welcome. He was exceedingly cordial and was frequently applauded. The response was made by Col. W. H. S. Burgwyn, of Weldon. After a musical selection, by Mrs. H. D. Burkheimer, of Charlotte; W. P. Stacy, Esq., of the Wilmington bar, was presented and delivered the address of the occasion. Next there was a recitation by Miss Ruth Porter, of Charlotte, mascot of the Mecklenburg Camp, U. C. V., and the concluding feature was a song, "Our President," by Miss Toon, of this city. The song was composed and copyrighted by Mrs. W. P. Toon, of this city.

A business session will be held this afternoon, convening at 2:30 o'clock, and this evening the veterans and other visitors will visit Wrightsville Beach, where they will be entertained at a dance given by the Tidewater Power Co. in honor of Cape Fear Chapter, United Daughters of the Confederacy, sponsors and maids of honor, and the veterans. The parade will take place tomorrow.

There are between 2,500 and 3,000 visitors here for the reunion and more than half this number are veterans. The attendance is considered splendid. The weather is ideal and everything seems to have conspired to make the occasion a glorious one in every respect.

Teachers Institute at Shelby.

Special to Telegram.

Raleigh, Aug. 2.—Prof. M. C. S. Noble, here for the past two days, goes next week to Shelby to hold a two weeks' teachers' institute and thereafter will go to Page county, Iowa, to deliver lectures in a big teachers' institute there, on teaching mathematics and geography. He lectured on these subjects in the Page county institute last season also and the call for a second series comes as a decided compliment. Page county, Iowa, schools, were the mecca of the Ogden party last year in conducting the superintendents of schools for Southern states to inspect model rural schools, these having national reputation.

Two Convicts To Pen.

Special to Telegram.

Raleigh, Aug. 2.—Sheriff A. S. Richardson was here today from Cumberland county to deliver to the penitentiary two convicts to serve ten years each. Kid Shine, is to serve ten years for larceny and Carrie Smith, colored, gets ten years for killing another negro woman.

GOVERNMENT OF CUBA AFTER GEN. ACEVIDO

Havana, Cuba, Aug. 2.—The government is taking active steps to capture General Acevedo and his insurgents and thus nip in the bud the uprising which has started in the central portion of the island. It is believed that prompt action will not only destroy the hopes of the revolutionists but will have a tendency to prevent similar uprisings in the future.

Requisition Honored.

Special to Telegram.

Raleigh, Aug. 2.—Sheriff M. M. Buford, of Newberry county, S. C., was here today and procured from Governor Kitchen an order honoring a requisition from the Governor of South Carolina for Andrew Pratt, who is wanted in Newberry to answer the charge of murder. He is now in jail at Fayetteville.

ENTOMBED MINER WAS RESCUED THIS MORNING

Fourth Attempt to Reach Joseph
Clary Was Successful — Lead
Drilled Through Yesterday and Clary Reported That He Was Hungry.

Joplin, Mo., Aug. 2.—Joseph Clary, the entombed miner, was rescued today, after having remained in the mine 70 feet below the surface for four days. After making three unsuccessful attempts to reach the entombed man his parents persuaded the rescuing party to make a fourth attempt yesterday afternoon.

This time they were successful in drilling direct through the lead and a call to Clary brought back the response, "send me something to eat, I'm hungry." Nourishments were at once lowered and the rescuers worked with renewed energy to clear the lead and bring the imperiled man to a place of safety, while he sat below complacently eating fried chicken.

FINE SCHOOL HOUSE GOING UP IN ONSLOW.

Special to Telegram.

Raleigh, Aug. 2.—E. M. Koonce, representative from Onslow county in the 1911 legislature who pressed for passage in the last general assembly bills of the most pronounced anti-trust character and for a general investigation into the methods of fire insurance companies in North Carolina, all of which, however, failed to pass, is here arranging for a number of the state officers to go to Jacksonville, the county seat of Onslow, later in the fall to take part in elaborate ceremonies celebrating the completion of a very handsome new school building there costing around $10,000. Governor Kitchen and State Superintendent J. Y. Joyner will be among those attending.

Two Winston Players Released.

Special to Telegram.

Winston-Salem, Aug. 2.—Manager Clancy this morning handed to Pitcher McClary and Rightfielder Spencer pink slips. McClary played in two or three games, but did not measure up to expectations.

IMPOSSIBLE TO ASCERTAIN CROP CONDITIONS.

Special to Telegram.

Raleigh, Aug. 2.—At the State Department of Agriculture it is said that the crop conditions in this State this season seem to be phenomenally irregular, so much so that it is next to impossible to get together any figures that will make a reasonably authoritative showing of the conditions. There are many sections of the State in which the crops, cotton, corn, tobacco and the others, are developing beautifully and where normal and even considerably increased yields will be obtained, but that there are many other localities, notably in the Charlotte section, where the crops are still badly parched by drought and others where the rains have come too late to prevent serious curtailment of the yields. It is said that while the corn harvested will probably be a normal yield for North Carolina, this will be due to greatly increased acreage that under more favorable season conditions would have produced "bumper" crop for this State. Tobacco, following the late seasons for planting that cut the acreage and stand in half, there have been hailstorms in numbers of localities that still further damaged the crop. However, where the seasons are holding up anything like fairly the tobacco crop is developing nicely.

BLOW AT MILADY'S BONNET

No More Fine Feathers May Be Used in Jersey.

Trenton, N. J., Aug. 2.—Under a law passed by the last legislature, after today it will be an offense punishable by heavy fine—and, perchance a dungeon cell—for any person to use in any manner whatsoever with especial and definite reference to milady's bonnet, the plumage of any bird the killing of which is prohibited by law. The law was passed at the instigation of the Audubon Society, following similar action by other states under the same stimulus. The bill was introduced by Assemblyman Badcliffe, of Passaic county, who is a married man. He said its plain purpose is to stop the slaughter of birds for their plumage to adorn the headgear of the feminine section of the population.

GOOD ROADS DEVELOP TRADE.

Good roads are of great advantage to the people of both town and country. The people of the cities and towns and the rural districts are mutually dependent upon one another in a large degree. The towns and cities must have the products of the farms, and the people of the country must have the wares and merchandise offered for sale in the towns and cities. The mutual interests of the two classes necessitate much travel between the country and the incorporated community; and thus it is that roads and road improvement play such an important point in the lives and the business affairs of all the people. Good roads help the farmer by affording him facilities for easy travel to the town or city and for marketing his products. They help the business men of the towns and cities by bringing the country people in to do business with them. In discussing some features of the good roads problem, along this and similar lines, The Norfolk Landmark presents a broad view of the subject which is worth considering, when it says:

"This subject of good roads is no local issue. It is not confined to any section of a State or even to any State. It is nation-wide in its interest. It means that moribund communities may be enlivened, that sleepy rural districts may be awakened, that the march of progress can travel ways hitherto closed and the cost of living can be lessened.

"It is an easy thing for statisticians who are enthusiastic advocates of improved waterways to figure what the nation's railway bill for transportation is. It is also easy to deduce from such statements the saving to be effected by digging canals and making rivers navigable. Reports of the rail companies give the absolute data for such comparisons and the known cost of waterhauling affords the other element for the table.

"But it is a most difficult task to estimate the fearful toll that is paid by the people for hauling produce over the disgraceful highways with which this country is afflicted. No other civilized land affords so many and such thorough 'horrible examples.' The condition of the commercial arteries of the United States is indefensible on any plea, and indictable for so wealthy a people.

"The benefits of good roads are more widely diffused than those of any other public undertaking. From the farmer in some obscure section of the country to the banker in a metropolis, all share in the general good created by them. The day laborer on the streets is interested; the treasury in Washington is concerned. There is no class of men or variety of undertaking which is dissociated from the subject of good roads.

"No community can become great which is not easy to reach. Rail and water transportation are such obvious necessities that they can not be overlooked, but good roads, while less obtrusively valuable, are no less determining in fixing the expansion of a city or a town. In some ways and for some sections they are more valuable. The great transportation lines may, and often do, contribute very little to the real prosperity of a place. They employ the cheaper kind of labor in making transfers of goods from one medium of transportation to another, but they do not, of necessity, originate freight. Roads do.

"A city is made rich by its back country; and the back country is made prosperous by the cheapness with which it can deliver its produce to the city. Staple prices are made in the great markets; and the producer who can get his output on the rails or water at the least expense for first haul is the one who profits most largely.

"When the farmer is prosperous and has money to spend, he spends it at the nearest town if the roads are good. If they are not, he more frequently buys by mail from houses at a distance. He is like every other class of buyer, he would prefer to see what he is going to buy; but rather than undergo the discomfort of a journey over ill kept roads he sends for his stuff. It may not be just what he desired when he gets it, still he does the same thing over and over again because traveling is such a nuisance. If the roads were good, traveling would be a pleasure."

Admiral Togo is scheduled to arrive in this country tomorrow. In the face of this fact Congressman Hobson is strangely silent.

Talking about flying—numerous citizens of Georgia are insisting that Hoke Smith fly to Washington, but it is evident that Hoke would rather run Georgia.

J. J. Miner, for seventeen years editor and publisher of the Sylvan Valley News at Brevard, has sold that paper to R. B. Wilson and O. L. Jones, two young newspaper men of the western part of the State.

The afternoon paper is the working man's paper, the busy man's paper and the busy housewife's paper. In a busy town like Greensboro the afternoon paper is, as may readily be observed, everybody's paper.

The parents of Dorothy Arnold are still seeking for their lost daughter, but Dorothy stories no longer appear in the newspapers. Just now all the space most of the papers can spare for sensations is being devoted to the Beattie case.

If the Lorimer investigation is ever concluded it will be in order to organize a League of Lorimer Liars, composed of those who have testified in the various investigations of the election of the Illinois Senator.

Columbia State wants to know the name of the Vice President of Haiti. Perhaps the name of the man who served yesterday could be secured; and if there is a new man on the job today, the daily papers will doubtless record the fact.

Monument to Dr. Knapp.

The movement to erect a statue in Washington to Dr. Knapp, with replicas in each of the Southern States, has taken tangible shape, following a general organization. He was a scientific and yet most practical agriculturist, whose life-work was climaxed by an effort to double the yield and halve the cost on the farms of the country. The South was an especial beneficiary of his thought and labors.

It appeals to the average toiler to realize that this memorial will be "a perpetual demonstration of the fact that our people hold in lasting memorial and esteem, not only those who distinguished themselves on the battlefield and in the forum, but also our great educational and industrial leaders who have distinguished themselves in the arts of peace." Even if the world has not paid too much honor to military heroes, it has been too negligent of the quiet and unobtrusive thinkers and doers to whom it is everlastingly indebted. He who makes two blades of grass to grow where one grew before is greater than he who taketh a city, for he is an edifier and not a destroyer. The humble artisan who shapes an ax handle out of a forest tree has added more to the actual taxable values of the State than all of the everlasting yawpers who have vexed the ears of the populace since the records of civilization were first embalmed in history. All honor then to the man of peace and industry who works betterments for the advancement of the race. A laurel wreath for his memory, whether it is a cotton gin or a sewing machine, a harvester or a typesetter. The Knapps and the Burbanks, the Mergenthalers and the Edisons, are as worthy of consideration and distinction as any of the heroes who have led or directed a desperate charge—who have rushed to glory and the grave.

Dr. Knapp was great, he was sensible and kind, and the farmer boys everywhere should contribute at least a bushel of corn to provide a concrete perpetuation of his memory.—Charlotte Observer.

The Young Idea.

In a certain school in the south of Ireland a schoolboy of tender years is said to have produced the following essay on the camel:

"The cannibal is a sheep of the desert. It is called a bacteria because it has a hump on its back. The cannibal is very patient and will lie down and die without a groan, but when it is angry it gets its back up, which is called making the hump. The shepherds of cannibals is called Arabs. When they live in towns they are called street Arabs. When the cannibal goes on a journey it drinks as much as it can to last for many days. Such animals are called aqueducts. Those that cannot carry enough are called inebrates."

"How dared you run away from me with your umbrella when it was raining and hold it over that servant girl who was carrying a jug of beer?"

"Sorry; but you see it was our servant and my beer!"

TALKING ABOUT THE TELEGRAM

The Greensboro Telegram, which has heretofore been a morning paper, has metamorphosed into an evening publication. It appeared yesterday in the afternoon field, following its Sunday edition as a morning paper. J. T. Fain, the editor, announces that when he and H. G. Braxton purchased the paper it was with the intention of making it an afternoon paper. Mr. Braxton having carried out his original plan to retire from the newspaper business, Mr. Fain preferred afternoon work and consequently is now in his chosen field. He has made The Telegram an interesting and valuable morning paper and he now promises to make it a live afternoon newspaper.—Wilmington Star.

Following the assumption of full control of The Greensboro Telegram by J. T. Fain, comes the announcement that The Telegram will abandon the morning field and will hereafter appear as an afternoon paper. He has made an excellent paper of The Telegram and in the new venture The Chronicle wishes him continued success.—Charlotte Chronicle.

Editor J. T. Fain has bought the interest of H. G. Braxton in The Greensboro Telegram, and will continue in the capacity of both editor and business manager. Editor Fain is making The Telegram better and more interesting every day. We can not understand how three dailies manage to survive in a town like Greensboro, but each one of them looks so good that it would seem to merit a more desirable state setting. Luck to The Telegram.—Charlotte News.

In the Greensboro Newspaper Field.

Things do move in Greensboro, and the five newspapers of that city always manage to keep up with the double quick procession. Two important announcements made by the Greensboro press within the past few days attest as to this. In the first place The Greensboro Telegram is to be changed from a morning to an afternoon paper and J. T. Fain has acquired entire ownership of the paper and will hereafter direct its business affairs as well as conduct its editorial columns, and which, by way of parenthesis, he has done in the past in most capable and able manner. He is a bright, crisp writer, and a fearless one. He moved to North Carolina when he and associate purchased The Telegram from R. W. Haywood, and though but a short while back, so strong is his personality that he has taken a firm hold already on the hearts of the newspaper brethren of North Carolina; to such a powerful extent that at the last meeting of the State Press Association he was elected one of its vice presidents. No doubt the afternoon Telegram will meet with big success. We sincerely hope so.—Wilmington Dispatch.

GOSSIP

(By ALVA ARMSTRONG.)

Somebody has thought it worth while to say that gossip is as necessary to a woman as food and drink. Why the matter of sex should be dragged in is a mystery. Everybody knows that old women belong to both sexes.

The creature who simply lives for gossip is as likely to be found in breeches as petticoats. We all know men whose flow of little tattle is not to be surpassed by any feminine ingenuity or industry. Such people, who make an occupation of what ought to be an amusement, are, fortunately, the exceptions to ordinary existence. But in a decent and modest way we all love gossip.

Why not? "The proper study of mankind is man"—to take the first of a dozen much-worn quotations that fly to the pen. A taste for gossip means nothing more than an interest in humanity.

To like to know what other folks are doing and saying and thinking is not malicious or undignified. It is merely a proof that you are healthily alive. Of course, you can overdo it. You can be too greedy in the matter of gossip, as with other good and stimulating things. But a modest portion serves to keep you in good spirits. To live for it is as contemptible as to be a drunkard.

Self-Forgetfulness

(By HARIET PRESCOTT SPOFFORD.)

Forget ourselves! That is, to remember other people till their trials, if they do not crowd out our personal trials, occupy equal place with them, till their identity looms up and corresponds with our own; or simply, and in better words, to love our neighbors as ourselves.

Without doubt we are privileged to take our choice of the neighbor, the point being only to make sure of the neighbor at all odds—the neighbor whose benevolent conducting power leads away from us all that surplus introspection and brooding, all that energy for sympathy, which, directed only upon our own affairs, work havoc there.

It is not to be supposed that in a phase of existence where good is still to be brought out of evil on its upward way, and where so many various elements are still clashing, that any individual condition can be perfectly and permanently happy.

The little child, surrounded by love, without a care, the young person just pausing on the threshold of maturity, to whom the future is wrapped in a golden haze of hope and expectation, are the only ones to whom life seems bright and faultless; are the only ones who, if you asked them, would be positively and absolutely sure that life was something to be thankful for; the only ones filled with satisfaction through the "mere joy of living."

But to some even of these young beings the little cloud upon the horizon overshadows that heaven of theirs; the apparition of the multiplication table rises and shakes his horrid hair, in its train a long procession of evils—the fearful ten to be carried, the awful mystery of the possessive case, the necessity of learning how to spell phthisic, and eventually metempsychosis, the deprivations of dainties which elder people provoke younger palates, the obligation to work when sunshine invites to play, to go to bed just when the lamps are lighted and everything is bright as fairy land downstairs, the subjection of the will to another's in all respects and at all times, the reaching forward to that haven of rest, the condition of the "grown up;" too soon do these troubles, and such as these adulterate the happiness with which the child opens its innocent eyes upon life, and too soon do corresponding troubles beset the youth or maiden who has found, so far, Pippa's satisfaction with life, but to whom, as the years fly by, come disappointments in love, in hopes, comes blasting of ideas and aims, comes the sense that it needs indeed, another world to complete this.

STATESVILLE WATER SUPPLY.

It Is Abundant for the Present, But the Effect of the Drought Is Seen.

Statesville, Aug. 2.—Now that other towns of the State are suffering from water famines on account of the continued drought, Statesville people are naturally becoming interested in the local water supply, and it is a pleasure to give the information that there is no immediate danger of the town being minus plenty of the good, pure water with which it has been blessed since the system was installed. A visit to the pump station north of town convinces one that while the supply is naturally running lower than usual there is still plenty of water under the present arrangement and if it should become necessary that portion of the water flow which is now allowed to pass on can be easily saved. The demands of the town are growing steadily and in case there should be a long drought a few years hence it might be necessary to draw on some other supply, but the fact that a prong of Fourth creek is not far away dispels the fears of the future.

For the past few years water has been pumped from the Gregory branch, a strong, clear stream, in addition to the supply from the regular reservoir, which is fed by a number of springs. On account of the drought the springs are not yielding quite so much water and the flow of the branch has been decreased, and while neither of the sources could furnish enough water, the two together have so far furnished an abundance. The water is pumped from the two sources at the same time, and while the reservoir is almost emptied every day, only about half the flow of the branch is consumed. For a few days before the rain about ten days ago all the water of the branch could be used when the pumps drew on that source alone, but since that time it is doubtful if the pumps could take the entire flow of the branch should the supply from the reservoir be cut off. The pumps are now kept running 18 hours a day and during the remaining six hours the reservoir fills up and all the water of the branch passes away. Should it become necessary the reservoir could be enlarged by building the dam a few feet higher and an arrangement easily effected by which all this water which now passes away could be pumped into the reservoir and saved. The register at the station shows that during June over 600,000 gallons were pumped into the standpipe daily, and the record for July will show a big increase.

A Good Hint.

"I wonder," remarked a youthful astronomer who was very slow in doing what was expected of him, "if—if you will let me associate you with a star—Venus, perhaps, the star of love?"

"Well, no," replied the young lady addressed, thoughtfully—"I would rather that you thought of me as Saturn."

"Indeed! Why?"

"Oh, well, you know, didn't you tell me that Saturn has a ring?"

He bought one the following day.

"Where are you off to in such a hurry?"

"To fetch the doctor for my husband."

"What's up with him?"

"He tells me he has got hepatitis, dyspepsia, rheumatism, enteritis, gastritis, appendicitis, nephritis, and cerebro spinal meningitis."

"Holy terrors! Where did he get all that?"

"Why, a man induced him to buy a medical dictionary, and he's just begun reading it."

ABOUT THE TONGUE

(By WILLIAM A. MAYSON, M. D.)

Ulcers and sores of any kind on the tongue should be attended to at once. In certain constitutional diseases sores on the tongue are a sign to which doctors attach much importance, and it is a recognized fact that, in certain states of the constitution, a sore which begins as a simple thing—caused, it may be, by the sharp point of a decayed tooth—may develop into a very serious trouble.

Cancer of the tongue is regarded as liable to arise in this way. No doubt, in such cases, we have to reckon with some defect of the body's constitution; but, as we are ignorant of the cause of cancer, it behooves us to be very careful in attending to once to any tongue ulcers or sores, and to cure them by the use of formamint lozenges, strict attention to the state of the teeth, and the services of the dentist when necessary for the removal of useless, decayed teeth.

Smokers especially should attend to the state of the mouth in relation to the tongue. There is no truth in the statement that even a foul pipe will cause cancer. If such an infliction occurs the pipe may be regarded as only an exciting cause, the real cause being a mysterious something in the individual's constitution.

If everybody who smoked a foul pipe suffered from tongue or lip cancer, we might then suspect a direct relation between the pipe and the disease; but among thousands of even careless smokers, cancer is rare.

Do not allow your kidney and bladder trouble to develop beyond the reach of medicine. Take Foley Kidney Pills. They give quick results and stop irregularities with surprising promptness. Howard Gardner.

"That's a fine cigar case you've got."

"Yes; my wife gave it to me for a birthday present."

"Anything in it?"

"Yes. The bill for the case."

Thirty Years Together.

Thirty years of association—think of it. How the merit of a good thing stands out in that time—or the worthlessness of a bad one. So there's no guess work in this evidence of Thos. Ariss, Concord, Mich., who writes: "I have used Dr. King's New Discovery for 30 years, and its the best cough and cold cure I ever used." Once it finds entrance in a home you can't pry it out. Many families have used it for forty years. It's the most infallible throat and lung medicine on earth. Unequaled for la-grippe, asthma, hay fever, croup, quinsy or sore lungs. Price 50c, $1.00. Trial bottle free. Guaranteed by Fariss Klutz Drug Co.

Some men are of such little consequence that they are not even asked to sign petitions.

Attack Like Tigers.

In fighting to keep the blood pure the white corpuscles attack disease germs like tigers. But often germs multiply so fast the little fighters are overcome. Then see pimples, boils, eczema, salt-rheum and sores multiply and strength and appetite fail. This condition demands Electric Bitters to regulate stomach, liver and kidneys and to expel poisons from the blood. "They are the best blood purifier," writes C. T. Budahn, of Tracy, Calif., "I have ever found." They make rich, red blood, strong nerves and build up your health. Try them. 50c at Fariss Klutz Drug Co.

Beware of the girls with dreamy eyes, young man; they may be wide awake.

Hay Fever, Asthma and Summer Colds Must be relieved quickly and Foley's Honey and Tar Compound will do it. E. M. Stewart, 1034 Wolfram St., Chicago, writes: "I have been greatly troubled during the hot summer months with Hay Fever and find that by using Foley's Honey and Tar Compound I get great relief." Many others who suffer similarly will be glad to benefit by Mr. Stewart's experience. Howard Gardner.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed it has a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.

The Constant Wearing of a Hat Propagates Dandruff Germs.

There are many men who wear their hats practically all the time when awake, and are blessed with a heavy shock of hair; yet if the scalps of these same men once become infested with dandruff germs, the parasites would multiply all the quicker for lack of air. Baldness would ensue as the final result. Newbro's Herpicide kills these germs and stimulates healthy hair to abundant growth. Herpicide is a pleasant hair dressing as well as a dandruff cure and contains not an atom of injurious substance. Sold by leading druggists. # 75 PER CENT. OF THE BIG ADVERTISERS OF AMERICA PREFER EVENING NEWSPAPERS

Out of 400 Large Department Stores 302 say they Prefer Evening Papers and Give Reasons Why

(FROM THE LOS ANGELES RECORD)

OUT of 400 letters sent to the large Department Stores of America asking which they considered a better medium for advertising, a morning or an evening daily newspaper, 392 replied. Of these replies 302 stated they preferred the evening newspaper for advertising; 26 stated they gave the evening paper first copy when they used an evening and a morning paper. As the Department Stores are always the largest advertisers in their respective cities and are in a position to see where the results come from, their opinions, formed from experience, are most valuable. They all speak most emphatically of the advantages of the evening paper over the morning paper for advertising. Of these 302 advertisers who prefer the evening paper a large number of them use the evening paper exclusively and find the returns most profitable.

THE following statements, made by the different large firms of America show why they prefer the evening paper over the morning paper:

ST. LOUIS, MO.—The evening paper is best, as it is the one that gets into the homes and stays there. Men carry the morning paper downtown on their way to work in most cases.—Wm. Barr Dry Goods Co.

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.—The evening paper undoubtedly is the best advertising medium, because it most surely gets into the very hands toward which all department store advertising is intended—the women of the house—and because then there is plenty of time to read, plan and digest.—Loveman, Joseph & Loeb.

CHICAGO, ILL.—We spend $325,000 a year and 75 per cent of it is in the evening papers and 25 per cent in Sunday papers. Even with our great morning papers we cannot make them pay, though the experimenting has cost us $100,000.—Siegel, Cooper & Co.

EVANSVILLE, IND.—We prefer the evening paper for advertising because the housekeeper, business man and working man have more time to go through the paper in detail after the day's work is over and have time to plan their next day's shopping. Our experience is that we get quicker and more direct results from the evening paper.—Fowler, Dick & Walker.

BOSTON, MASS.—We consider the evening paper the best medium, because it is taken home and the women get to see it.—Henry Siegel Company.

BRIDGEPORT, CONN.—We consider the evening newspaper better, because we cater to the working people, and they are employed from 7 a. m. to 6 p. m. and their only leisure time is in the evening, and they invariably take only evening papers, and have more time to read advertisements.—Cline Bros.

ALBANY, N. Y.—We consider the evening newspaper a better medium for advertising, because women have more time and better opportunity to read the evening papers.—Waldman Bros.

AKRON, OHIO.—We consider an evening paper a superior medium. The evening paper goes direct to the homes and is more thoroughly read. It is read by men after business duties are through for the day and they are more liable to remember the advertising. The morning paper is used by office men.—C. H. Leager & Co.

MILWAUKEE, WIS.—We consider the evening paper the best advertising medium, as the average woman does not take time to read a paper until her work is done.—Ed Schuster & Co.

DETROIT, MICH.—We prefer the evening paper.—Partridge & Blackwell.

CINCINNATI, OHIO.—Best results from evening newspapers. The only time I use a morning paper is Sunday for Monday's business. Balance of the week the evening papers do the work to my entire satisfaction.—The Fair.

LOUISVILLE, KY.—We use afternoon papers exclusively during the week. Morning papers on Sunday only.—John C. Lewis Company.

ST. LOUIS, MO.—For advertisements containing items of special prominence likely to produce a rush, the evening newspaper serves as a better advertising medium, first, because people as a rule, have more time to read an evening paper thoroughly and note the contents thereof; second, it gives an opportunity to shoppers to select what items they contemplate purchasing and allows them time to prepare a program for the next day's shopping.—Burgin Dry Goods Company.

BROOKLYN, N. Y.—We prefer the evening paper week days and the morning paper Sundays only, because the evening paper is brought to the home by the member of the family who goes to business and buys and reads the paper on his way home. The Sunday paper is delivered at the home and read in the home.—Price & Rosenbaum.

BROOKLYN, N. Y.—We consider the evening paper the better medium for advertising, mainly because the evening paper goes into the home and stays there when there is time for the whole family to read and consider.—Frederick Losser & Co.

ST. PAUL, MINN.—We have always given the evening paper the preference. We spend $40,000 a year for advertising and this all goes into newspapers. We use no other medium of any kind, as we consider ANYTHING OUTSIDE OF THE NEWSPAPER as money wasted.—W. H. Elsing & Co.

PROVIDENCE, R. I.—We consider the evening paper better as a general thing, for it is usually the home paper.—Caldendar, McAuslin — Troup Co.

INDIANAPOLIS, IND.—The evening paper is, in our opinion, most profitable for advertising.—The Wm. H. Block Company.

BUFFALO, N. Y.—We do most of our advertising in the evening paper.—Wm. Henerer Co.

BOSTON, MASS.—We prefer the evening paper by all means, because it goes into the homes directly, while the morning paper has a tendency to work back into the business section and does not reach the homes in such relative number as the evening paper.—Houghton & Dutton.

ST. PAUL, MINN.—Where I've been, almost without exception, the evening paper is the best medium.—W. H. Milligan, Advertising Manager Field, Schlick & Co.

CLEVELAND, OHIO.—The evening paper by all means.—The Bailey Company.

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.—It is our opinion that the evening paper is better, as the shopper is prepared to sally forth the next morning.—Penny & Gentles.

SPIRIT OF FRENCH ARMY CAUSE OF CONCERN

French Labor Leaders and the Anti-Military Propaganda Arouse the Authorities--Batch of General News From France.

(By GEORGE DUFRESNE.)

Paris, Aug. 2.—That a mischievous spirit is abroad in the French army, which might become a serious danger to the country in case of a war, is daily becoming more evident and is causing the government considerable anxiety—especially at a time when the Morocco question has not been finally settled. While there is probably no more patriotic nation in the world than the French, and while undoubtedly every man capable of carrying arms would be ready to give his life for his country in case of war, compulsory military service in times of peace is anything but popular. The military labor unions, which are again seen their plans frustrated by the troops, are taking advantage of this to further their own ends.

A recent trial of three labor leaders brought out a number of startling facts about the anti-militarist propaganda which has caused a great feeling of alarm among patriotic citizens. The men were arrested in connection with the society known as "Sou du Soldat." This society sends pocket-money to soldiers who are trade unionists. Accompanying the money is a circular urging the soldiers to fire their rifles in the air should they be called upon to take part in a war.

Questioned as to the workings of the "Sou du Soldat," Victor Viau, one of the men under arrest, declared that the society was affiliated with the bricklayers' union which had about 14,500 members. Every member paid a franc a month. A portion of this contribution went to make up the postal orders of five and ten francs sent to the soldiers. A member of the union who fulfilled his military service did not receive more than ten francs a year.

Asked who drew up the circulars inciting the soldiers to disobedience Viau confessed that he himself indited the anti-militarist letter sent out in May. "We appeal to the conscience of men," said Viau, "for we cannot admit that a comrade should be ordered to fire on his brother."

In answer to this circular many letters were received at the headquarters of the "Sou du Soldat." One of these epistles ran:

"I have advised my comrades not to march on any occasion, and to disobey orders of their officers if they are asked to shoot."

Another letter was thus conceived: "I will turn my toes if I am ordered to march. You can count on me."

M. Delcasse has not made any startling alterations in the Lapeyriere navy law. Under that scheme, sixteen battleships were to be laid down—two in each year from 1910 to 1916 inclusive and one in 1917 and one in 1919.

The first two—the Corbet and Jean Bart—are already well advanced, and will be launched during the autumn, while orders have been placed for the 1911 ships, which have received the names of France and Paris.

Up to and including 1914, M. Delcasse proposes to adhere to the policy of his predecessor, but in 1915 it is proposed to lay down four ships, two on January 1 and two on September 1. To counterbalance this there will be no armored vessel laid down in 1916, and the last two of the sixteen will be commenced on January 1, 1917, thus saving more than two years on the original scheme.

It remains to be seen whether the project will be adopted, but the program certainly appears to be the minimum on which France will be able to hold her place—already the fifth—among naval powers. Meanwhile, the new scheme of distribution is to come into force this month, although it will be some time before all the units necessary to its complete achievement are ready for the pennant. Under the new arrangement the whole of the fully-commissioned ships will be in the Mediterranean, the first squadron consisting of the six Dantons, and the second of the four Libertés and the two Patries. There will, however, be a strong reserve fleet in the Channel manned by sufficient men to keep the ships in thorough order and ready for sea.

This move has undoubtedly been dictated by the progress of Italy and Austria, both of which will have a Dreadnaught at sea before France.

The Impresario Schurmann, who has toured most of the "stars," has written a most entertaining book of memoirs, under the title of "Secrets de Coiffures."

He says it is becoming increasingly difficult to organize tours abroad because of the scarcity of young talent. If all the leading actresses are not grandmothers, he rather ungallantly remarks, they might easily be.

The reason Paris does not revolt against this perpetual eclipse of the young and ardent debutant, he goes on to say, is because the public of the "prophetical generale" is itself old and never changes. It would be conscious of its bald head and gray whiskers if it saw a new artist in the front rank.

The lady of a thousand charms may weigh a hundred kilos or so and may have lost all outward grace, but, happily for her—though unhappily for art—the habitue looks upon her with the eyes of one-and-twenty. Yet the general public according to the impresario, has not the same reasons for wishing to be deceived, and so—it stays away.

He proposes to attract the public to the legitimate drama by substituting younger actresses for the passe stars of the present day.

One of the last acts of the Senate prior to the recess was to vote the prevention of cruelty to domestic animals bills. No legislation tending to the same purpose seems to have been adopted in France since 1850, and therefore the present reform has exceptional interest.

Up till now no person could be punished for cruelty to animals unless he was the owner, or represented the owner. Thus a wine-dealer, who seized two of his dogs, poured turpentine over them, and set them alight, was dismissed by the magistrate because he was not the proprietor of the dogs.

Last month a male domestic, who had been discharged, went to the stable and tore out the eyes of his master's horse. The law was powerless to punish him.

Such facts had become too frequent and too numerous for Parliament to look on with indifference. Henceforth, anyone who maltreats a domestic animal will be amenable, and a second offence will be still more severely punished. The maximum penalty, however, is not more than three months' imprisonment and 300 francs fine. Still it is an excellent beginning.

To give praise where praise is due, I may point out that the Cartiers' Syndicate of Nantes, affiliated to the General Labor Confederation, encourages kindness to animals and has expressed warm approval of the bill in a letter addressed to the reporter of the measure in the Senate.

A Vain Precaution.

Lord Talbot De Malahide was talking in New York about the thoroughness of the customs investigations.

"The smuggler," he said, "is bound to be detected if he tries his little game in your metropolis. The smuggler's precautions against detection at this admirably-managed port are as vain and ludicrous as the precautions of the dreaming Irishman."

"An Irishman, you know, once dreamed that he was visiting the late Queen Victoria."

"Will you have a drink?" the queen said to him.

"I will," said the Irishman. "A drop of Irish, ay, coarse, hot by preference, your majesty."

"So the queen put on the kettle, but when the water boiled, the noise awoke the dreamer."

"Holy St. Patrick!" said he, "I'll take it cold next time!"

"Pa, whato is a trioleet?"

"Don't you study botany, my son?"

"Yes, pa."

"Then look it up in your glossary of botanical terms."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

Parental Shrewdness.

Visitor—You showed to want your son Herbert to go out west and go to farming, but I see you've let him have his way at last and sent him to college.

Mr. Muntoburn—Huh! Think I didn't know what I was doing? After his four years at college his allowance will stop, and he'll naturally have to go to Kansas to be a harvest hand.

"With what result?"

"A lot of expensive plants were nipped by frost."—Washington Herald.

NOTICE OF SALE.

By virtue of a power of sale contain- ed in a deed of trust executed to A. Wayland Cooke, Trustee, on the 12th day of February, 1909, by William Smith and his wife Cora Smith to se- cure the sum of four hundred and sev- enty-five and no/100 ($475.00) dollars, same being recorded in Book 207, page 241, of the Records of Guilford County, and default being made in the payment of the said debt and in the conditions of the said Deed of Trust, whereby the power of sale became operative, the undersigned will on the 12th day of August, 1911, at 12 o'clock, noon, at the Court House door in Greensboro, North Carolina, sell to the highest bidder for cash, the following described real es- tate:

That tract of land lying and being in Gilmer Township, Guilford County, State of North Carolina, and more par- ticularly described as follows:

REMSEN BOARD WAS ILLEGAL

Washington, Aug. 2.—The House com- mittee investigating the Remsen board sprung a sensation today. The state- ment made by Attorney General Wick- ersham some time ago that the Remsen board was illegal has never been made public until brought out today by the committee. The statement had been suppressed by the Department of Agri- culture.

McAdoo Hotel Changes.

M. W. Sterne, who for a number of years has been proprietor and manager of the McAdoo hotel, has resigned his position in favor of his son, Archie Sterne, who has been associated with him for many years and now assumes all the duties of active management. Mr. Sterne is occupied with other inter- ests that demand his resignation from the head of the hotel.

Automobile Strikes Six Year Old Boy

Penn, the 6 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel A. Watkins, was struck by an automobile yesterday afternoon about 6:30 o'clock on South Elm street in front of the Public Service Company office. The little fellow ran from the sidewalk unheeding the car that was approaching down the street at a moder- ate rate of speed with Sigmund Stern- berger at the wheel. The application of the brakes and a sharp cut of the wheels kept the body of the machine from go- ing over and crushing the little fellow. The fender struck his head, however, and he was knocked down into the street. Rumors that quickly spread stated that the child was fatally hurt but an ugly bruise on the head was the only wound and in a couple of days Penn will again be as lively as ever. Mr. Sternberger leaped promptly from his car after the accident and carried the wounded boy into the office of Dr. Parran Jarboe, where the wound was treated. Mr. Sternberger then carried the boy to his home on Schenck street, the little vic- tim showing no signs of impending dis- aster as the result of the bump.

THIRTY-SIX MILLION DOLLAR SLUMP IN CURB MARKET.

New York, Aug. 2.—A thirty six mil- lion dollar slump struck the curb mar- ket today, the Standard oil selling off twenty-three million, and the American Tobacco declining thirteen million. Stock holders fearing losses threw their shares on the market causing a panic.

Rib Chop With Onion Cream.

Sprinkle little salt and pepper over mutton chops and put them in a pan with a little melted butter, cover them with a piece of buttered paper. After ten minutes turn the cutlets and replace the buttered paper for ten minutes longer. Peel onions and cut them up fine, put them in a sauce- pan with an ounce of butter. Then let them simmer but not brown. Add salt, white pepper and one-half table- spoon of flour, stir and add gradually one-half pint of hot milk with a pinch of sugar. Let cook four minutes and strain. Lay the chops on a platter in a circle and pour the sauce around them.

Potato Apples.

Two cups of hot rice potatoes, two tablespoons butter, one-half cup of grated cheese, one-half teaspoon salt, few grains of cayenne, slight grating of nutmeg, two tablespoons thick cream, yolks of two eggs. Mix in- gredients in order given and beat thoroughly. Shape in form of small apples, roll in flour, egg and crumbs; fry in deep fat and drain on brown paper. Insert a clove at blossom end and the stem of an apple at stem end if obtainable, otherwise another clove to each apple.

To Keep Tomatoes Whole for Winter.

Take some nice ripe tomatoes and pare without scalding them. Use a wide mouth quart jar and place enough tomatoes to fill it in a steamer set over a pot of boiling water; steam till about milk warm, then place them slowly in the jar, put in snugly; cover with boiling water and seal up air tight. Tomatoes will then keep nicely for slicing or anyway one chooses to use them.

Dublin Cake.

One cup of mashed potatoes, one cup of sugar, one and one-half cups of but- ter, two eggs, one-half cup of cho- colate, one teaspoon of cinnamon, cloves and nutmeg, one cup of sour milk, two cups of flour, one teaspoon of soda and one pound of well floured raisins. This is delicious and will keep a long time.

All the world's a stage, but most of the actors are amateurs.

UNDERWOOD DENOUNCED BRYAN'S STATEMENT

Declared He Was Ready to Proceed With Tariff Revision—Speech Produced Sensation—House Democrats Believe Bryan's In- fluence is Waning.

Washington, Aug. 2.—In the House this morning Representative Underwood, the Democratic floor leader, denounced as an absolute falsehood the state- ment made by William J. Bryan that Underwood stood in the way of the revision of the iron and steel schedules. He said he was ready to take up the iron and steel schedule, but the Democrats voted to take up wool. In his speech he de- clared that he had refused to be dictat- ed to by Bryan.

Representative Underwood received a great ovation at the conclusion of his speech. Both Democrats and Republi- cans crowded around to congratulate him.

The general opinion seems to be among the Democrats in the House that the rank and file of the party have de- serted Bryan and that his influence in the future will be felt in a far less de- gree than it has been in the past.

Following the speech of Congressman Underwood Congressman Asher Hines, Republican, of Maine, addressed the House on the cotton bill. He urged that there be no tariff revision at this ses- sion, contending that the report and re- commendations of the tariff board should be received and considered before any further changes are made in the tariff schedules.

The Senate today appointed conferees on the wool and campaign publicity bills.

Bribed Legislator Tells Committee of Fund Distributed in Lor- imer Election.

Washington, Aug. 2.—Before the Senate Lorimer committee, investigating the election of Senator Lorimer, Charles A. White, whose confession as printed in the Chicago Tribune started the investigation of the election of Lorimer by the Illinois legislature, today told the committee of the time when R. E. Wilson distributed to himself Sheppard, Luke and other members of the Illinois legislature who had been bribed to vote for Lorimer, their portion of the "jackpot" fund. White stated that he received as his portion of the fund $900. The money was distributed, he said, in the Southern Hotel at St. Louis.

Clarksburg, W. Va., Aug. 2.—The engineer was killed and the fireman injured in a wreck of the New York and St. Louis train, No. 1, on the B. & O. railroad three miles west of Salem, Va., this morning. No one else was reported as seriously injured.

PERMITS ISSUED DURING THE MONTH OF JULY.

During the month of July Building Inspector Milton issued permits for nineteen buildings inside the city limits. The aggregate cost of the buildings was $37,500. In addition to this a considerable amount of building was done outside the limits, for which no permit was required.

Vessels Collide In Fog.

New York, Aug. 2.—During a heavy fog off Long Island this morning the steamship Massachusetts rammed the schooner Susan Pickering. The crew on the schooner was rescued.

Altered the Case.

"The evidence is all against me," ruefully admitted the prisoner to his lawyer. "There are about twenty witnesses who will swear to my identity. I can't possibly prove an alibi; and I have a very bad record."

"H'm!" observed the lawyer, thoughtfully. "You certainly don't appear to have a case; but, tell me, have you any money?"
"Yes, plenty," answered the prisoner hopefully. "Twenty-five thousand dollars."
"Twenty-five thousand dollars!" exclaimed the lawyer, delightedly. "Why you have one of the best cases I've ever come across. My dear sir, I'll see you don't go to prison with all that money." And he kept his word. The prisoner went there broke.

DECISION AGAINST EXPRESS COMPANIES

Washington, Aug. 2.—The Interstate Commerce Commission decided today that express companies cannot charge lower rates from producing to consuming points than from producing to intermediate points. The commission further ruled that the present tariffs must be corrected by February 1, 1912.

VIRGINIA TOWN GOES WET.

Prohibitionists in Staunton Are Beaten by Majority of 102—No Violence But Much Feeling Displayed.
Staunton, Va., Aug. 2.—In the local option election held here yesterday the "wets" won by a majority of 102. The town has been "dry" for the past two years and some time ago the liberal element began a vigorous campaign for a change in conditions. While no violence attended yesterday's election, much partisan feeling was displayed.

Women and Society

Miss Williams To Entertain.

Miss Anna Williams has issued invitations requesting the presence of about a hundred members of Greensboro's younger social set for a reception in honor of her house guests, Misses Katherine Jones, Lucy Landis, and Josephine Gales.

On Fishing Trip.

Deputies J. H. Shaw and W. J. Weatherly left this morning for Sharpe's pond to spend a couple of days on a fishing expedition. They sent their tent and supplies through the country and went down on the morning train. In case they do not catch enough fish to eat they will return tomorrow night.

On Camping Trip.

A camping party from Greensboro passed through the city this morning enroute to Wilkes county. They will spend a week or ten days near North Wilkesboro. Mrs. D. C. Clapp is chaperone. The other members of the party are: Misses Carrie Clapp, Eileen and Mary Neale and Eursell Freeman; Messrs. W. Z. Brown, Henry Clay, Thos. McKnight and William Neal. A complete camping outfit accompanied the party.—Winston Sentinel.

Miss Lea Entertains.

Miss Gertrude Lea entertained last evening at her home on Percy street, complimentary to her attractive houseguest, Miss Marjorie Lea, of Richmond, Va. Miss Lea's home and the surrounding lawn were lighted with numerous Japanese lanterns and entirely given over to the enjoyment of the thirty young people, who passed the evening hours in a manner corresponding in its delights to the merriness of the party and Miss Lea's charming graciousness as a hostess.

A huge punch bowl, which was filled several times with the delicious beverage, was conveniently located on the porch, and one and all availed themselves of the opportunity to bountifully test the superior quality of the drink. Delightful sherbert and wafers were then distributed to the groups of guests by Misses Mary Callum and Annie Lea. The "crowd" homeward wended its way at a late hour after spending a most pleasant time as visitors at the Lea home.

Delightful Occasion.

The G. O. S. Y. club, composed of several young ladies of the city, was the recipient of a delightful entertainment last evening. The affair was tendered to them by Mr. and Mrs. Ham Adams, in honor of Miss Katie Lee McKinnon, of Maxton, who for some time will be the guest of Miss Bessie Alderman, on West Market street.

An elaborate dinner in courses, was served to the guests at the McAdoo Hotel at 8 o'clock. The bowling alley at Lindley Park was then visited and the ladies tossed tenpins and balls until a late hour. Mrs. S. L. Alderman assisted Mr. and Mrs. Adams in chaperoning the party. Besides this trio the guests present were:

Misses Katie Lee McKinnon, Mabel Clary, Helen Preyer, Eleanor Moore, Rose Sternberger, Eliza Moore, Margaret Glenn, Mary Moore, Bessie Alderman, Allie Brown Ware, Alma Sparger, Maie Dorsett, Eunice Tate and Mrs. S. L. Alderman.

Negro Women to Work House.

No new cases came up for consideration in Municipal court this morning. Two negro women were the only defendants and were on the docket for the purpose of having the fines imposed upon them yesterday by the court changed to prison sentences as they could not pay themselves out. Henrietta Watkins sentenced yesterday to pay the costs in a case charging her with larceny was given a term of 20 days in the county work house. A like fate was meted out to Hattie Glenn who had also been fined the costs for trespass.

"Miss Columbia" and "Uncle Sam" Appear In Sunday School Parade

BROOKLYN has an annual Sunday school parade that is one of the big events of that section of Greater New York. President Taft reviewed the last parade, in which thousands of children took part. One of the amusing and interesting features of the parade was the appearance of a tiny boy and an equally tiny girl representing Uncle Sam and Miss Columbia. They were quite dignified for their years, and their quaint costumes made them striking figures.

COAST FORTIFICATIONS ARE IMPREGNABLE

So Says General Leonard Wood of Defenses of This Country—Wood, However, Wants to Organize Large Militia Force to Supplement Coast Defense Forces.

(By VICTOR ELLIOTT.)
Washington, Aug. 2.—It is the opinion of General Leonard Wood and other army experts that the coast fortification of the United States are absolutely impregnable.

On the other hand it is argued by General Wood that an invading army might be able to attack an American coast city by landing beyond the range of the fortification, provided of course, there were no mobile army of prime fighting strength to oppose the invaders.

This is one of the reasons why the Chief of Staff and his associates are urging Congress in season and out for a strong defensive force. A larger and better equipped army is necessary for the complete protection of this country, it has been repeatedly shown, and this is exactly what at the present the War Department is campaigning to get.

The coast fortifications are the strongest in the world, General Wood holds. He says they cannot be silenced even by the most powerful fleet of dreadnaughts ever assembled. Their enormous guns can withstand any attack, and their garrisons any siege.

This position was taken before the House Committee on Expenditures in the War Department. General Wood points to the fort at the entrance to New York harbor, to Fort Monroe protecting Hampton Roads, to the forts on the New England coast and Pacific coast as being too strong for any attacking fleet, or any landing force.

There is the possibility that hostile forces might be landed outside the range of the guns of these fortifications. This causes the army experts concern, and prompts them to appeal over and over again to Congress for money to strengthen the mobile army.

The War Department has worked out plans for the defense of all the American seacoast cities, but what is now needed is the money to make these plans effective.

ive in time of war or threatened war.

"There is an actual plan in New York harbor," says General Wood, "where you can send militia in case of war to cover possible land attacks. It has all been mapped out even to indicating where water mains shall be tapped to carry water the camps. We want a militia organization to be known as the coast guard, amounting to 240,000 men for the entire country, whose duty would be the defense of the coast and of the fortifications."

"If we have no such force an enemy could land on either side of New York or Boston and walk into either city. They would not have to come under range of the great fortifications at all."

General Wood does not minimize the immense importance of the forts. On the other hand he takes this view of them:

"Take the city of New York, for instance. Without these defenses at the mouth and on the flanks of the harbor, a fleet of battleships or swift cruisers could come in and put the city under tribute, or destroy it, if they liked. We can lay mines in any part of New York harbor, but we are really laying them only across the entrance, because our works at the mouth of the harbor are so strong that we are confident that no fleet could possibly get through."

The same thing applies, according to General Wood, to Boston harbor, the mouth of the Chesapeake, the mouth of the Mississippi river, and the harbor of San Francisco. The forts are strong and could not be leveled by any attacking force afloat, but before they can offer adequate protection they must be supported by an army on shore that can move from one point to another as rapidly as the occasion demands.

"An enemy is not going to walk into our traps," he says, "but they will, of course, land very near the vitals of our country. The theatre of a war on our Atlantic coast would be in the immediate vicinity of our great cities. On the upper Atlantic it would be between Washington and Boston and on the Southern coast it would be in the Gulf near the big cities. They will not land in remote places, because it gives too much time to organize. They are going to land near enough to hit us."

To make such a force effective, as would be necessary to repulse an invader's landing, the War Department has recommended the merging of a large number of army posts. This would serve to bring the force closer together, and make the whole more efficient. It is proposed by the Department that out of the 160 army posts now scattered throughout the country half be abandoned.

In the old days when there were Indian troubles on the frontier, a large number of army posts were necessary to protect the people. Now the Indians are quiet, and it is no longer necessary to scatter the army force over so wide a reach of territory.

The recent mobilization of troops in Texas shows the difficulty of moving a large force. The 20,000 men now in that State were drawn from more than a score of army posts. For the best efficiency, the army experts declare, these troops should have been in three or four posts. They could then have been assembled in less time and with much less expense.

The House committee has indicated that it will assist the War Department both in reducing expenses, and in giving greater efficiency to the army.

Mars and Atwood, Aviators, Are Prominent In the News One Day

Photos copyright by American Press Association, 1911.

TWO aviators, Harry N. Atwood and C. J. ("Bud") Mars, recently played important parts in the news of one day. Atwood completed his remarkable flight from Boston to Washington and after taking luncheon with the Aero Club of Washington went to Potomac park, where he had left his aeroplane, mounted it and flew to the White House. After flying directly over that historic structure he sailed to the Washington monument, a quarter of a mile away, circled around that shaft several times, occasionally going so close that it seemed his machine would hit the monument, then sailed away, rose to a height of more than a thousand feet, passed over the monument and dropped easily and gracefully to the White House lawn. He shook hands with President Taft, received a gold medal commemorating his flight from Boston, then mounted his machine and sailed away. One of the pictures above shows him just as he had passed over the White House. Mr. Mars had an accident the same day Atwood called on the president. Mars was flying at Erie, Pa., when he lost control of his machine and dropped a hundred feet to the ground. Three of his ribs were broken, and he suffered other injuries that it was thought would be fatal, but a few days later it was said that he would recover. In one of the pictures above Mr. Mars is shown seated in his aeroplane with his wife beside him.

He had the poet's instinct for leaving practical matters to others. But father-in-law-to-be did not know this. "Look here, young fellow," he said, "I think it's about time the date of your marriage with my girl was fixed."
"Yes, perhaps," the young man agreed. "But I am leaving that entirely to Mabel."
"Ah! Is it to be a quiet or stylish wedding?"
"I think, sir," answered the young man quietly, "I can leave that safely in the hands of Mrs. Bullion."
"Yes; quite so!" nodded Mr. Bullion. "But a young fellow generally has some idea with regard to the expense—bridesmaids' gifts, you know. And, by the way, what is your income?"
"Well, that, sir," said the young man modestly, "I am leaving entirely to you."

DRIVES BALL INTO FOG BANK AND MAKES HOME RUN.

During the seventh inning of the Lynn-Fall River baseball game recently Weaver of the latter team put up a fly so high that it disappeared in a bank of fog and hasn't been found yet. Weaver made the circuit with Halght going around ahead of him.

These two runs put Fall River in the lead, 6 to 5, but the umpire called the game then because the fog was so thick that he could not distinguish the outfielders, and as the score reverted to that at the end of the sixth Lynn got the game 5 to 4.

be able to get him there. I figured on sailing Sweeney and Ford on strikes, then passing Wolter and getting Daniels. That would have left the Swede sticking on third.

"I got the two strikes, all right, on Eddie. Then I gave him a ball that dropped down and out. It was as rotten a ball as you could find, almost hitting the ground as it broke. I thought he might swing at it and miss it or else pass it along and then I would stick a fast one across and get him.

"Instead of that, Sweeney uppercut the ball and smashed it on the fly to Danny Murphy. It was a sacrifice, all right, and Johnson came over. It was a cinch to get the next man. That is what I mean. I don't say that we would have won the game, as we couldn't hit Russ Ford. But the game might have been different if Eddie Sweeney hadn't poked at the worst ball I fired all day. That's baseball for you. It is always a case of you never can tell."

HOLDER OF MORTGAGE BONDS GETS PROPERTY.

Property of Toxaway Company, Including Three Hotels, Goes Under Decree of Sale.

Asheville, Aug. 1.—The property of the Toxaway company at Lake Toxaway, including the Toxaway, Fairfield and Sapphire hotels, together with about 27,000 acres of land, was sold yesterday at the postoffice building under a decree of sale by the circuit court of the United States for the Western District of North Carolina, to satisfy a deed of trust or first mortgage for bonds to the amount of $272,000. These bonds are held by E. H. Jennings, of Pittsburg, a representative of whom bid in the property for $100,000. Judge James E. Boyd made the decree of sale on May 4, 1911, on the motion of J. G. Merrimon, attorney for the Colonial Trust Company, trustee.

In 1902 a mortgage was executed by the Toxaway company to the Pennsylvania Trust Company, as trustee, covering the property of the company. This was turned over to the American Trust Company and then to the Colonial Trust Company. This mortgage was to secure the mortgage bonds. On the following year a second mortgage was executed to cover coupon bonds to the amount of $272,000. Mr. Jennings being the owner and holder.

The defendants made default in the payment of the interest as it came due and also default in payments to the sinking fund, whereupon the holder of the bonds demanded of the trustee that the property be sold to satisfy them.

ODD ANIMAL FAMILIES

SOME STRANGE ADAPTATIONS HAVE BEEN NOTED.

Friendly Relations Often Formed Between Cats and Dogs—Story of French Chicks That Had a Feline Foster Mother.

The cases in which cats and dogs have formed close relations are, of course, too numerous to mention. It really seems as if there were no animal friendship so strong and lasting as that between cats and dogs when once it is formed. It is well known that mother cats when deprived of their new-born progeny will adopt puppies, rabbits, monkeys or almost any other tender young creatures that may be handy. But there recently came to light a case for which there is no such apparent explanation.

A cat and a female fox terrier, which had brought into the world their progeny at about the same time, deliberately swapped their young, the cat taking the puppies to bring up and the dog the kittens. The exchange was satisfactory, and both litters were brought in good health to the weanable stage. Nobody knows what led to such abnormal conduct.

A somewhat similar case is reported from Halle, Germany. A householder there having a female cat and a female dog with families of young, felt that his house was in danger of becoming a sort of Noah's ark, and took away and drowned all the kittens. The puppies found favor in his eyes.

Deprived of her little ones, the cat began to "spell" the female dog in taking care of the puppies. As soon as the mother dog left her nest the bereaved mother cat crawled into it and nursed the puppies. Nothing loath, the puppies took all that came to them, and thrived prodigiously. The cat licked them and took care of them as she would have taken care of her own.

A certain cat, the story of whose career is vouched for by a cat club, adopted a litter of young rabbits and nourished them well. This cat was, for that matter, very sociable and inclusive in her likings. One year her constant companion was a chicken. The two ate habitually out of the same dish and slept every night in the same inclosure.

There is an authentic story of a male and a female cat in France that lived on terms of perfect amity with all the animals on the place—dogs, chickens and what not. It so happened that a hen which had a brood of seven chickens was killed accidentally. The cat, which some two weeks before had been deprived of her kittens, appeared to observe the predicament of the seven little chickens. She crawled into their nest and the chickens, looking for warmth, nestled into her warm fur, peeping gratefully. The chickens, fed by their owner, thrived perfectly, and every day the strange sight was presented of their following the mother-cat about the premises, as if expecting her to find them food after the manner of a hen.—New York Press.

CHINA IS MAKING STRENUOUS EFFORTS TO WIPE OUT OPIUM TRADE

Means Great Financial Loss to Government but Will be Salvation of the Nation From Intolerable Conditions—China Will Raise Foodstuffs in Poppy Fields.

(By SIDNEY ESPEY.)

Washington, Aug. 2.—Papers recently filed with the Department of State by Minister Calhoun at Peking along with a great mass of diplomatic correspondence, indicate that China is making strenuous efforts to wipe out the trade in opium. China has been waging this war for years in the face of discouragement and temporary financial loss. It is estimated that the aggregate annual loss in opium revenue to the government will be about $50,000,000. Many government officials, it is said, accustomed to the use of opium for many years, gave up their lives in order to assist the government to further its campaign for the suppression of the traffic.

But China has begun to realize that her future rests largely upon her ability to rescue her teeming millions from the blight of the opium habit. She is trying to shake off the habit which has bound her to her past, which has kept the people hovering on the brink of starvation, has diminished their energy, banished national ambition, and put her far behind Japan in the march of modern progress. Owing to the vast tracts of Chinese soil which were given up exclusively to opium, the Chinese have gone without breadstuffs and have suffered depopulating famines when the available food supply was lessened for any reason. The vitality of her people has been diminished, not alone by the opium habit, but also by imperfect nourishment, even in normal years. It is this condition which the Chinese government is struggling to overcome. Against the immediate loss in revenue from the destruction of the poppy fields, the government is balancing, says Minister Calhoun, the ultimate gain to the nation which must come from planting the soil in foodstuffs and restoring its population to a normal degree of efficiency.

One of the State Department files on the subject says: "China has estimated the result of her abandoning the trade somewhat as follows: Gain to the people of a total annual expenditure in cash for opium of $151,525,000. The yield from land given up to the poppy when planted in wheat, cotton, and other crops will be at least $91,525,000, which, added to the expenditure for opium, means an annual saving of $242,400,000. The average earning capacity of non-opium using Chinese is about twenty-eight cents a day. The lowest estimate for loss of earning capacity from the use of opium is seven cents a day. As there are something like 25,000,000 male opium smokers this will mean an annual saving of $547,750,000. Added to this financial summing up is the desire on the part of leading Chinese to develop according to the vast possibilities of this remarkable country. With opium no longer sapping the lives of her people and claiming their paltry earnings, China feels that she might have a chance to develop as Japan has developed.

China, Mr. Calhoun says, has done remarkably well during her three years probationary period, which ended December 31, 1910. The agents of reform were met in the remotest districts with actual violence, with hoes and pitchforks, and the law had to be enforced with blood. But into a thousand walled towns and hamlets, into the fields of remote provinces, and through the defiles of mountains, the agents of progress have made their way, with results that speak well for China's future.

Many of the twenty-one provinces have ceased poppy cultivation entirely and in all the percentage of decrease is large. In many places other crops have taken the place of the poppy, and a mercurial substitution, for the scarcity of food crops in China has made the price of food almost beyond the reach of the miserably poor, while the adjustment of industrial conditions, including rents, leases, credits and mortgages, has been regulated solely by opium production. Chinese officials claim that the reduction in cultivation has reached 80 per cent, and enthusiastic individuals claim 90 per cent. The British consuls acknowledge from 25 to 40 per cent, and the American consuls will this year probably name 50 per cent as a fair estimate. It is unfortunate, the correspondence, says that China, owing to her previous loose system of accounts, has not been able to determine accurately the exact amount of reduction, but a disagreement in regard to definite figures is immaterial from a broad standpoint.

"Any reduction," continues Minister Calhoun, "deserves the highest praise, and a decrease of 25 per cent is a marvel. But a disinterested party fixes 50 per cent, and that means that in the poppy fields of China whose purple and crimson glory has been the symbol of a people's ruin, a miracle has been wrought. This is prohibition, not written in as edict, but embodied in a fact."

In quoting Viceroy Tuan Fang, Mr. Calhoun writes: "The time for writing is past. Let the world see our deeds, and judge if we are in earnest in the abolition of opium."

Continuing, the American diplomatic representative says: "Pronounced activity has been exercised in closing the opium dens. In one city 7,000 have been closed, in other cities 3,000, 2,000 to 1,000 while in 10,000 market towns the dens have been effectually put out of business. About 2,000,000 places in all have been closed. Shops neglecting to comply with conditions of prohibition have been sealed. One wholesale place is said to have suffered the loss of $1,350 a day. The shrinkage in revenue is serious, but the attitude of the government is that it will not seek to satisfy its hunger or quench its thirst through the baneful poison of a great crime. So the Imperial decree is inexorable."

Within a year a great world-wide opium conference will be held abroad at which representatives from the various exporting and importing countries will be present. Measures will be passed at the conference limiting the amount of opium imported into any country, and devising means for the lessening of the trade.

This, taken together with the strenuous steps of the Chinese government, seems to insure a lessening of the traffic and an elimination of many of the opium "joints" in this country and other foreign countries where Chinese have migrated to any considerable extent.

Loss of Time Means Loss of Pay.
Kidney trouble and the ills it breeds means lost time and lost pay to many a working man. M. Balent, 1214 Little Penna St., Streator, Ill., was so bad from kidney and bladder trouble that he could not work, but he says: "I took Foley Kidney Pills for only a short time and got entirely well and was soon able to go back to work, and am feeling well and healthier than before." Foley Kidney Pills are tonic in action, quick in results—a good friend to the working man or woman who suffers from kidney ills. Howard Gardner.

A June Tragedy.
Young man groaned the well dressed young man opened his eyes and stared for a moment at those who were bending over him. Then he lapsed into unconsciousness, and a physician who had been hastily summoned to the scene shook his head doubtfully, says the Chicago Record-Herald. There were many cuts upon the injured man's face and head, and it was evident that he had suffered severe internal injuries.

Beside him lay a beautiful girl, who was dressed in a becoming traveling suit. Her sweet face was marred by several bruises, and the doctor, after a hurried examination, announced that her heart was still beating, but he would make no statement concerning her chances of recovery.

They had not been in a railway or an automobile accident. There were no evidences of a smash-up, and it was evident that they had not been attacked by robbers, for a large amount of money was found in one of the man's pockets.

Later it was discovered that they had started away on their wedding journey and had fallen into the hands of their loving and enthusiastic friends.

Up to Henry.
"You talked in your sleep last night, Henry."
"Did I, my dear? What did I say?"
"Henry, you are leading a double life!"

"No, dear, don't—don't say that. I think I must have been having a bad dream if I said anything that seemed to indicate—"

"A bad dream! I should think you were having a bad dream. You kept yelling, 'Robber!' 'Robber!' 'Kill him!' 'Run it out, you lobster!' and a lot of other things that were just as absurd. I want you to confess now—fully and freely—and I promise you that if it is anything a good woman should forgive, I will forgive you."—Chicago Record-Herald.

THE DETAILS OF CUTTING SCRAPE TUESDAY MORNING

Joe Powell and Norton Summers, the Combatants, Divided Honors About Evenly—Both Had Their Wounds Treated and are Recovering in the Calaboose.

Complete details of the cutting scrape engaged in by the two negroes, Joe Powell and Norton Summers, could not be obtained yesterday afternoon as The Telegram went to press, for the police themselves had been notified of the affair only a short time before. At the time Powell had been brought to headquarters but work had not been commenced of cleaning and stitching his three wounds. He was known to be badly hurt as he was unable to escape arrest within the space of nearly three hours which intervened between the cutting and his arrest. He has three very ugly wounds, one on his left arm, one on the left shoulder blade, and the most dangerous is located in the back and side, beginning immediately under the left shoulder blade and extending in one clean cut for at least nine inches to the front of the body. It was a deep and gaping wound, about an inch and a half deep and requiring 17 stitches to draw the flesh together. The negro was then placed on a comfortable couch in the jail and rested well throughout the night and morning. It is thought he will recover, assuredly so if he can avoid contracting pneumonia in the wound, which he stands about an even chance of doing.

Summers, who inflicted the wounds, was captured and brought to the office about 4 o'clock. He carries four wounds from the hand of his victim but his condition is not so serious. A stab wound a couple of inches deep in the left breast narrowly missed the heart but it is only a flesh wound and was cleaned, drawn together by adhesive plaster, and bandaged without the expectation that it will prove fatal or even serious, although the negro was terribly frightened at his narrow escape and was as docile as a lamb in the hands of the police. He also had a wound on the forehead, forearm and shoulder.

The affair occurred before 12 o'clock, but it cannot be stated definitely as each gladiator was quickly spirited away by friends and the police did not learn of the duel until after 1 o'clock. The home of Letha Morton, in Pricetown, the little colony of negro houses just beyond the waterworks on the Battle Ground road, was the scene of the affair. The men, who are apparently about 22 years of age each, are laborers at the Jennings brick yard, near the water station. Yesterday they were spending a short vacation, as the new-made brick was too damp to be placed in the kiln and the men were discharged for the day.

Both went to the Morton woman's house and were seated on the porch, where according to their tale, each called the other insulting names. Powell lost his self-control and first stabbed Summers. They then slashed desperately for several minutes, when Powell, badly hurt, was forced to seek safety in the house. Summers then fled and hastened away from the scene by the Mt. Airy railroad as fast as his bleeding wounds would permit. Powell admitted at police headquarters that he had made the first attack but said that Summers first drew his knife from his pocket. This was corroborated by the other negro.

Sergeant Pearce and Policeman McCuiston first answered the call, finding Powell at a nearby house and bringing him in. Officers McCuiston and Skenes then pursued the fleeing Summers and traced him to the home of Ella Price, half a mile distant, where he had been forced to hide when weakness from loss of blood overcame him. The Morton woman knew nothing whatever about the fugitive when questioned by the policemen, but it was afterward discovered that he had been lodging and boarding with her for two weeks.

Both negroes hale originally from Gilesville. The father and brother of Powell came immediately to his aid yesterday afternoon from that place. They attempted to give bail for him but as there was a probability that he might have to answer the charge of manslaughter his bond was fixed at $250 which they were unable to produce. The two negroes occupied adjoining cells last night and both expressed the opinion that each had gotten the worst of the fight. They will be tried as soon as they are able to appear in the court room.

FRATERNAL ORDER MEMBERS SHOULD HAVE PROTECTION

So States Commissioner Young in Answer to Criticisms of His Activity.

Special to Telegram.

Raleigh, Aug. 2.—In view of criticisms that are being passed on the State insurance department in some quarters on account of what is alleged to be excessive supervision of mutual and fraternal insurance calculated to weaken the confidence in the confidence of the people State Commissioner of Insurance Young issues a statement in which he insists that people going into these institutions should have the fullest sort of protection and he is simply carrying out the State law. He is requiring proper policy contracts; the keeping of funds for benefits and expenses separate and hold expenses within 60 per cent this year and 50 per cent hereafter; payment of all claims promptly; the keeping of books and records that will show all transactions and that can be checked up readily by the representatives of the department of insurance and safeguard against the misuse of funds.

COLOR FOR FROSTINGS

DIFFERENT METHODS BY WHICH THEY ARE TINTED.

Diluted Saffron for Yellow Icing, Chocolate for Dark Brown, Carmine Powder for Red and Spinach Curd for the Green.

Here are some different ways of coloring frostings. White icing is made with white of egg beaten stiff and mixed with powdered sugar. If you add a tablespoon of lemon juice it will be a purer white.

For yellow icing take a few drops of diluted saffron and add to the white frosting. Chocolate is the best for dark brown frosting. Cinnamon frosting is made by adding a teaspoon of cinnamon to white of one egg. This is rather a pretty frosting.

For red frosting take a little carmine powder, dilute with a few drops of lemon juice and add to your frosting. Carmine powder is also to be bought at the druggists, but is rather expensive. You can also get a pretty pink by using a few drops of berry or currant juice.

Green frosting is made by adding spinach curd to the white frosting. To curdle spinach bruise a few leaves thoroughly, squeeze the juice into a clean saucepan and boil till it curdles, then add few drops of water, strain through napkin and with that which remains in the napkin color your frosting green. Of course, you can get green color by making little indigo with saffron, but it is not healthy.

Blue is colored with violets, which, by the way, makes a handsome jelly or cornstarch pudding. You take a handful of violets, soak them over night in little water, then stir thoroughly and strain.

You can make any of these in water icings if you wish by mixing sugar with the juices and beating good. But, of course, the egg is always an addition.

Some people make caramel by melting the sugar without any water, but the water makes it much easier, because it is not likely to burn.

Carrot Jam.

To each pint of pulp allow one pound of sugar. The grated rind of one lemon, the strained juice of two, eight chopped bitter almonds, two tablespoonful of brandy; select young carrots, wash and scrape them, put them in a saucepan with enough water to cover, and simmer until soft, then press through a sieve; weigh the pulp and to every pound allow the above ingredients; put pulp in a preserving pan with the sugar and boil slowly for ten minutes, skimming all the time; when cold add the lemon rind, juice, almonds, and brandy; put into jars, seal, and keep in a dry place. The brandy may be omitted, but the preserve will not keep. With the brandy it will keep good for months.

GEORGIA PATTERNS LABOR DEPARTMENT AFTER THAT OF N. C.

Special to Telegram.

Raleigh, Aug. 2.—The North Carolina Department of Labor and Printing is being greatly complimented in Georgia by there being in process of enactment by the Georgia Legislature of a department of labor and printing for that State modeled after the North Carolina department. At the request of the Georgia authorities Commissioner M. L. Shipman of the North Carolina department has supplied the data for the preparation of the bill and the definite launching of the movement in the Georgia legislature. It is not settled in Georgia yet whether the commissioner is to be elected by the people as in this State or be appointed by the Governor. It is also an open question yet as to whether the commissioner should be a representative of union labor or not.

Bitten by Copperhead Snake.

While playing in the grass at the home of a neighbor yesterday afternoon about 7 o'clock the little daughter of Jas. H. Kimbrell, on West Lee street, stepped on a copperhead snake that was as large in size as a man's thumb. The reptile struck the child on the ankle and for a time it was thought that serious injury might result. However, the neighbors who gathered about, bandaged the leg and prevented blood from the scratch flowing into the rest of the system. Dr. Boyles was summoned and administered remedies. Today the child, though still slightly sick from the poison of the bite, is suffering no ill effects from the ankle, which is yet swollen, but is expected to recover its normal shape and condition in a short time.

COUNTY TREASURER NARROWLY ESCAPED DIRE DISASTER.

County Treasurer G. H. McKinney had a narrow escape from what would have likely proved a dire disaster yesterday morning. He was sitting at his desk working on his accounts when, just as the clock tolled the hour of 12, a huge chunk of plastering dropped from the ceiling of the room and barely missed falling on his head. The plastering struck the floor with a resounding whack and, as the mind of the veteran had been turned back to the scenes of the Civil war on account of a number of his comrades leaving for Wilmington, he imagined the noise was that of a shell which had flown from the guns of the enemy. His mind instantly turned to the present when he saw only a huge piece of demolished plastering lying just behind his chair. What caused the plastering to fall is not known as there was no jar at the time to loosen it.

FARMERS PROTEST AGAINST PRESENT MEAT ORDINANCE

county, but of the State and the South depends.

While the agricultural departments of the United States and of the State, and while many of the farmers of Guilford county and of North Carolina are putting forth every effort to encourage the raising of meat at home and discouraging the purchase of it from the West, you have inadvertently adopted an ordinance which makes it impractical for most of the farmers to raise meat for sale.

We call your attention to the fact that if no exception is to be made to the stringent regulations with regard to inspection before slaughtering, and the farmers cannot slaughter their home-raised animals except in the manner indicated by your present ordinances, that you thereby create in the hands of a few men a substantial monopoly in the fresh meat business in the city of Greensboro and destroy competition.

A monopoly in meat here is worse for local producers and consumers than the beef trust.

Whether you intend it or not, the practical effect of your requirements, if made applicable to the farmers of Guilford county who raise their own cattle, will be arbitrary prices for fresh meats in Greensboro which will not fluctuate with the price of cattle, sheep and hogs on the hoof, and will drive the farmers out of business or to other markets. We call your attention to the further fact that there are few men who raise their own cattle, sheep and hogs who would sell a diseased animal. Most men are honest and the temptation to do so reprehensible a thing would not be very great in the case of farmers who raise their own cattle, because it is not often the temptation would be present, and when it is present the amount involved would be slight.

Our occupations to a large extent depend upon some such modification of your ordinance as we have suggested, and therefore, we respectfully urge upon your attention, with all the emphasis we can employ, the justice and necessity of some such change.

We believe that you will learn by inquiry and investigation that the sentiment of the consumers of meat in Greensboro, who are your constituents, and who are the persons most deeply interested, and for whom you act will be in accord with us in our reasonable request, when they come to study the question sufficiently to understand its merits.

We ask that you designate some day when we may be heard before you with regard to the proposition herewith submitted, of which day we can have timely notice.

This GAS RANGE Will Please You

Everything At A Convenient Height

The Broiler

Just high enough so that you can watch the meat without stooping.

The Cooking Top

Where your boiling, frying and general cooking is done. This is fixed at a most convenient height and does away with all awkward high lifting.

Extra Warming Plate

This is placed immediately under the broiler next to the cooking top. This plate will be found mighty handy for warming foods, also for slow boiling.

The Oven

Right above the broiler, easy to get at and easy to watch.

The Warming Closet

This is located in the bottom of the range. The closet is large enough to warm the dishes and keep the food warm for a party of twelve.

Extra Large Ovens

Both the oven and the broiler are extra large, not only wide and deep, but they have good height. This is an all important feature and one that will be appreciated by the cook.
